NUMB. 4082

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1745.

of a Private Letter from Frankfort, dated March 11, 1745.

E are at present more at a Loss about the Turn Affairs are like to take in Germany, than we were even at the Beginning of the War; since every Post brings us contradictory Advices from every Court in the Empire. The very last from Munich, brought us Advices directly some assuring us, that the Elector had, in Terms, rejected the Offers made him by the Queen of Hungary; and others as positively affirming, that the French were speedily to follow them. We are assured, however, from very good Hands, that neither of these Pieces of News are strictly true, the latter has at least as much of Truth as the former. His Electoral Highness of Bavaria is said to be a little piqued, that no greater Notice was made of the Advances made by him towards an Accommodation, immediately after his Imperial Majesty's which obliged him to have Recourse to those, with open Arms, were ready to receive him. He does not follow from thence, that he is absolutely to my Accommodation, especially under the Union of his Polish Majesty: On the contrary, is that, that he is desirous this should be treated at Dresden under the Eye of that Monarch; and that he will send a Minister Plenipotentiary thither, for Purpose.

The French Army, in our Neighbourhood, has lately received a considerable Reinforcement. under the Command of Count Lowendahl, a German Officer, formerly the Russian Service; one who has the Reputation of being a Person of great Courage and Experience. The former he gave extraordinary Proofs at the Battle of Fribourg; and of the latter, his March to French Camp was a convincing Instance, inasmuch as he performed it 30 Hours sooner than was expected. We are, however, at a Loss to guess what will do next, since it is certain their Troops are in Condition to stay where they are for any Time; therefore some People give Credit to what M. de Saxe has declared, viz. That his Orders are positive to fight the Allies as soon as possible, and at all by the way whispered here, That the Reason which induced the Ministry at Versailles to send this Officer hither, was to assist the Marshal with Councils; who has been, for some Time past, at the End, sending Expresses after Expresses to Court for Succours, and representing his Affairs as in a desperate, and as if he was on the Point of being surrounded; though, in Truth, the Army of the Allies was very little, if at all, superior to his, before he received this Reinforcement. It is also said, that some of the German Princes, who were contracting in the Treaty of Frankfort, were far from being satisfied with his Excellency's Conduct, and therefore solicited the French Court either to recall him, or send him a Coadjutor. In this, it seems, his Christian Majesty is inclined to gratify them; besides the General and the Forces that have already joined him, another Corps, of 11 Battalions and 20 Squadrons, are said to be marching to his Relief; the Prince of Conti is daily expected, in order to take upon him the Command in Chief.

December 14. Vice-Admiral Davers arrived upon the 7th, having met with a great deal of Weather in his Passage. The first Night after he arrived, he lost Company with most of the Fleet; but, in Three Days after his Arrival here, Capt. Legge, the Strafford, with the Enterprize and Merlin, and 10 Sail of Merchant-Ships, joined him, and to-morrow he proposes to sail for Barbadoes.

March 2. Five French Men of War are lately arrived to the Bay of Cadiz. A French Merchantman, the Comte de Vera Cruz, is also arrived in the said Bay with a Cargo of very considerable Value.

March 9. It is given out here, that the Prussian Army in Silesia is already completed, and that it will be the next Campaign in Four different Corps, under the Command of the King of Prussia, the reigning Prince of Dessau, Prince Leopold, and Veld-Marschal Schwerin. The King's Kitchen sets out for Silesia on the 11th, and his Majesty will follow upon the Hague, March 16. We have Advice here of the French having passed the Mayo in three different Places, and as if they intended to attack some of the Posts of the Allies, or to dispute their March towards the upper Mayn.

Some Letters from Paris say, that the French King has fixed the 4th of April for the Day of his Departure for the Army in Flanders; and it is said, will fix his Head Quarters at Lille.

We learn from the Hague, that the Abbe de la Ville has been informed, that if speedy Satisfaction be not given for what has already past, and such Orders issued as may prevent any future Insults on the Dutch Flag, their High Mightinesses will be obliged to have Recourse to Reprisals, in order to indemnify their Subjects for the Losses they have sustained by such Practices.

After bearing (last Spring) Mr. HANDEL'S Oratorio of SAUL.

THE Doctrine taught Us by the SAMARITAN Sage, That Spirits transmute from Age to Age; Successively thro' various Bodies glide, (The Soul the same, the Frame diversify'd;) At last, tho' long exploded, Credit gains; For lo! convinc'd by sweetly-magic Strains, With Ecstasy th' Opinion We allow, Since,—Proof that Orpheus was, is Handel now.

Too faint's the Hint, the Muse her Voice must raise; And, from a nobler Source, our Lyric praise.

Ye purer Minds, who glow with sacred Fire; Who, to th' eternal Throne, in Thought aspire; For Dissolution part, and think each Day An Age, till You th' Aethereal Climes survey; Who long to hear the Cherubs mingled Voice Exult in Hymns, and bid the Stars rejoice; Bid universal Nature raise the Theme

To Boundless Goodness, Majesty supreme:

O listen to the Warblings of his Shell,

Whose wondrous Power can fiercest Grief dispell!

O to his Sounds be due Attention given,

Sweet Antepast of Harmony in Heaven!
